Flames Clear Hill at Shuri

By JAMES LINDSLEY

GUAM, May 21 (AP) — First Marine Division troops have driven to the crest of the last ridge before the Okinawa fortress city of Shuri in a tank-led drive through 800 yards of ferociously defended ravines and draws.

Elaborate Jap hillside defenses were cleared by the flame-throwing tanks and weary riflemen as they climbed the steep inclines until the tanks could go no farther, and the battle turned into a hand-to-hand, cave-by-cave struggle.

Shuri, lying below the hilltop position of the Marines, was a pile of rubble from the incessant bombardment and bombing to which it had been subjected.

Lt. James Paulos, commander of a company which seized one ridge overlooking the ancient capital of Ryukyuan monarchs, told Associated Press Correspondent Vern Haugland his men had been subjected to heavy mortar fire all the way up the ridge.

Meantime, the 77th Infantry Division advanced doggedly to within 900 yards of Shuri on the northeast, throwing back three counter attacks, and elements of the 96th Infantry Division moved within 1600 yards of the city on the east.

The Sixth Marine Division sent elements eastward toward Shuri from its positions in suburbs of Naha.

Despite continued fierce Japanese resistance, Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge said there "was some indication that the Japanese are disintegrating as an overall fighting unit."

Hodge told newsmen the enemy was firing 1000 fewer artillery and mortar shells a night than formerly.

Lt. Gen. Buckner, in an address dedicating a small radio station on Okinawa, told his 10th Army troops that every Japanese effort to bring aid to the "doomed and dwindling" enemy garrison had met with "disastrous failure."

Nevertheless, an estimated 30,000 Japanese survivors of Okinawa's original garrison of 80,000 or more troops yielded, yard by yard, only in death.

Adm. Nimitz reported 48,103 Japanese had been killed

U. S. casualties were announced as 30,526 Army, Navy and Marine.

OKINAWA—U. S. troops are on the outskirts of Naha and driving on Shuri and Yonabaru against fierce Japanese resistance on Okinawa. Heavy artillery fire has slowed down the Marines who have been fighting for eight weeks on the island.

Japs Mobilize 20 Million Boys

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21 (AP)—"Critical developments in the war situation" today led Japan to mobilize 20,000,000 students on a full wartime basis "actively to participate in the homeland," Jap Domei News Agency said today. The dispatch said the mobilization order, effective tomorrow, would convert all students from universities down into a "student corps."

The ministry of education announced the "new wartime decree," and said students would receive special training and a diploma would be granted for unfinished studies "in case of death."

Ordinary school routines are to be subjected to production . . . defense and other activities," and students "incorporated into the new students' corps while engaged in these activities will receive special training to qualify them for active combat duties."

Togo Woos China in Move To End Japan's War Crisis

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21 (AP)—The "key to overcoming the crisis confronting Japan" lies in a solution of Nippon's basic Chinese policy, the Jap Domei news agency today quoted Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo as saying.

Togo defined that policy as "aimed at establishment of friendly relations between Japan and China, with respect to the principles of reciprocity in the economic sense and equality in political matters, in addition to giving support to China's independence, defense and unification."

He made his statement as greater East Asia minister, Domei said, to a meeting of Jap diplomatic representatives to occupied China.

The meeting followed a two-day conference of envoys at Premier Suzuki's residence.

Japs See Allied Force Prowling for Kyushu Strike

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21 (AP)—An Allied task force "again is on the prowl" and "appears to be attempting to approach Kyushu," the Jap Domei agency said in a broadcast yesterday.

The dispatch noted that since last Thursday Allied carrier aircraft raids against Kyushu and the Amami archipelago, south of Kyushu, had been increasing, and since dawn Saturday the "enemy" has been active over that area. It added:

"In view of the northward strike of enemy warships on May 13 and 14, coupled with the fact that the enemy task force again is on the prowl after leaving its bases in the Marianas, we can surmise that the enemy is up to some new scheme. The enemy armada appears to be attempting to approach Kyushu, but we cannot as yet predict what course the enemy fleet will take."

Werewolves Fail; Just Nazi Bogey

WUPPERTAL, Germany, May 21 (AP)—A month of American police work in the Ruhr has exposed the Nazi Werewolf as one of Joseph Goebbels' biggest propaganda phonies.

No such resistance has been encountered. The only tangible Werewolf activity has been the scrawling on alley walls in a few Ruhr towns of the threat: "Traitor, beware, the Werewolf watches!"

American officers have concluded from the questioning of the Germans that the Werewolf was a hasty, makeshift organization set up by the Nazis in the mistaken assumption there would be a real fighting front deep in Germany for a very long time.

CHARLEMAGNE REBURIAL

15TH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Germany, May 21 (AP)—Arrangements were being made today to return the remains of Emperor Charlemagne to their historic resting place in the Aachen Cathedral, from an air shelter in a copper mine at Siegen.

Briton Says F. D. Knew Death Near

BLACKPOOL, Eng., May 21 (AP)—Miss Ellen Wilkinson, a member of the British delegation to the San Francisco Conference, said today that President Roosevelt called the conference for April because "he knew that he had not long to live" and "he felt that he had something to give the world."

"President Roosevelt," she said in a speech prepared for delivery before the British Labor Party's National Conference, "even before that final meeting at Yalta, I am told, knew his days were numbered."

Pennsylvania Miners Back in Pits

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., May 21 (INS)—Ninety-three per cent of Pennsylvania's anthracite miners returned to the pits today after a three-weeks' strike while operators and officials of the United Mine Workers of America drafted a new wage contract.

Overwhelming Force To Hit Japan--Truman

By HOWARD FLIEGER

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—A ramrod-stiff sergeant from the shrapnel-splattered battlefields of Europe stood before his President and the Congress today to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor.

T-SGT JAKE W. LINDSEY

The sergeant, slender black-haired Jake W. Lindsey of Lucedale, Miss., was the 100th infantryman to receive the coveted award, highest in his country's gift.

Senators and representatives cheered and applauded—as the technical sergeant bowed to receive the blue-ribboned war trophy.

"This is a proud and moving occasion for every American," the President said.

"It follows the complete victory of the Allied forces over a powerful enemy in Europe. It finds us striking devastating blows in the Pacific. We are preparing to strike them later in overwhelming force."

Mr. Truman joined in the applause as the young Mississipian, accompanied by Chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall, accepted the award and stepped from the House dias.

It was the first time the halls of Congress had become the theater for a Congressional Medal presentation.

Sgt. Lindsey entered the bright-lighted House chamber with Gen. Marshall. He kept his eyes fixed straight ahead, now and then dropping a glance to his parents and his sister, who looked on from the House floor.

The members of Congress five times interrupted President Truman with applause as he recounted Lindsey's exploits at Hamich, Germany, on Nov. 16.

Once during the applause Gen. Marshall was overheard saying in an aside to Sgt. Lindsey: "Give 'em a bow! Give 'em a bow!"

The soldier, who bravely faced overwhelming odds in battle, found the occasion almost too much for him. He swallowed several times and his features never relaxed except when he shook hands with the President.

Mr. Truman told the Congress: "Before the battle against Japan is won, we shall have other men to honor—men whose deeds, like those we celebrate today, will have brought closer our inevitable victory."

"Through him (Lindsey) we pay a grateful nation's tribute to the courage of all our fighting men," the President said.

"The history of this war is filled with countless acts of valor by our soldiers and sailors and marines under fire."

The President pointed out no officer ordered Lindsey, when wounded, "to engage eight Germans in hand to hand combat."

"Those decisions came from his own heart," the President asserted. "They were a flash of the nobility which we like to think is a part of every American. They were the unselfish valor which can triumph over terrible odds. They were the very essence of victory."

Since the war started, he said, 223 Medals of Honor have been awarded to members of the armed forces, 162 in the army, 33 in the navy, 27 in the marine corps and one in the coast guard.

Of the 100 infantrymen so honored, 50 died in performing acts for which they were cited.

Chinese Spread Out Swiftly From Foochow

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, May 21 (AP)—Chinese troops in a sudden offensive in Kwangsi Province have recaptured Hochih, important Japanese bastion on the Kwangsi-Kweichow railroad, 95 miles west of the rail junction city of Liuchow, the Chinese high command announced today.

On the east China coast, Chinese troops hammering eastward from captured Foochow—possible American invasion port—have occupied Mamoi, eight miles distant, and other Chinese reached the vicinity of Lienkong, 20 miles northeast of Foochow, the high command said. The coastal successes were scored in yesterday's fighting.

Hochih was one of the Japanese strong-points screening the enemy corridor to Indo-China. Repeated Chinese attacks had failed to dislodge the strongly entrenched Jaapnese there during the winter campaign.

Chinese forces on the east coast also seized another port in the Foochow area, and rumors persisted that enemy troops were evacuating numerous China coast positions which they feared would be turned into death traps in the event of an American invasion.

Diongloh, a small port on the Min river 15 miles southeast of Foochow, fell to Chinese troops on Saturday. Approximately 200 Japanese who tried to make a stand were wiped out, the Chinese said.

Aussies Reach Boram Airfield

MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, May 21 (INS)—Japanese troops defending Boram airfield, northern New Guinea, resisted fiercely the advance today of Australian forces who previously cleared the Brandi plantation.

The plantation is three-and-one-half miles east of the airdrome, the edge of which was reached by the Aussies.

In New Guinea and on Bougainville, Gen. MacArthur said, the Australians enjoyed air support as bombers rained 62 tons of high explosives on Japanese bivouacs and strong points.

Quisling Suicide Guarded Against

OSLO, NORWAY, May 20 (delayed) (AP)—Police have removed all buttons from Vidkun Quisling's clothes to eliminate possibility of suicide, an office at Moellergaten 19 prison said today.

The former puppet premier is dejected, and it was feared he might break the buttons, using the jagged edges to cut his wrists.

He paces his cell continually, muttering or shouting the defense he is expected to present at his trial for treason.

6 Fail to Aid as Boy Drowns in Shallows

While four men and two women looked on in horror, apparently unaware the water was so shallow they could easily have effected a rescue without danger to themselves, four-year-old Michael Selvage of Washington ave., Chelsea, was drowned today in Chelsea Creek, off Crescent ave.

Michael and another small boy had been playing on a 50-foot floating ramp used for mooring boats. Young Selvage fell into the water. His frightened little companion raced along the ramp to shore, calling for help.

There were boats nearby but they were locked. Someone telephoned the police. Then, while the audience of six looked on hopelessly, the Selvage boy struggled to keep himself afloat in water not deep enough to submerge an adult of average height. He went under before police could get there.

Sgt. James Martin and Patrolman Harold Cassidy brought the little boy ashore and worked over him for half an hour, but without success. He was taken to Chelsea Memorial Hospital, where further efforts were made, but he was dead.

He was the son of Mrs. Helen Selvage.

His mother identified the boy's body at Chelsea Memorial Hospital and said his father, PFC Douglas Selvage, was with the Army in Europe. She collapsed and was placed under a doctor's care.

The boy went out to play while on a visit with his mother to the home of an aunt, Mrs. Nellie Cassidy, of Carroll ave., Chelsea. His mother was unaware of anything being wrong until she heard the police sirens as officers hurried to the drowning scene.

SOMERVILLE BOY KILLED

Thomas Hickey, 4, of Richardson st., Somerville, was killed today when struck by a truck in Richardson st. It was the first fatal auto accident of 1945 in Somerville.

SEEKS PIANO HONORS—Patricia Donovan, 12, of Weymouth, was one of the local students today who participated in the local auditions sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, as part of a nation-wide contest in which piano students are now striving for top country-wide honors. The auditions which opened today at Curry Hall, Huntington ave., will continue until Saturday.

HUMPHREY BOGART, LAUREN BACALL
Wed Today at Novelist's Home

The Leer Weds The Look

TIME 3 MIN.

MANSFIELD, O., May 21 (AP)—In the spacious hallway of novelist Louis Bromfield's 20-room home at nearby Malabar farm, filmland's Lauren Betty (The Look) Bacall and Humphrey (The Leer) Bogart were married shortly after noon today.

The fourth wedding for the 45-year-old "hard guy" of the screen, and the first for his 20-year-old bride, was a simple one. The ceremony lasted only three minutes.

Only the immediate families and a few friends were present.

The couple had made an early morning visit to the Richland County court house to apply for a marriage license.

Hope Bromfield, 18-year-old daughter of the novelist, played the wedding march on a piano, and then Miss Bacall entered, escorted by George Hawkins, manager of Bromfield's farm, who gave her away.

The movie star, who appeared in her first film, "To Have and Have Not," opposite her new husband, was deeply sun-tanned. A splash of lipstick provided her only noticeable make-up. She was dressed in a light pink, two-piece dress, with brown accessories, and wore a bracelet on each arm.

Bogart, clad in a gray suit, maroon tie, and sporting a white carnation in his lapel, appeared more at ease than the bride.

At the conclusion of the simple ceremony, performed by Municipal Judge Herbert S. Schlettler, Bogart turned and swept his bride into his arms and kissed her lightly on the cheek. She looked up at her bridegroom, laughed "oh, goody" and returned the kiss.

Then she turned and kissed Hawkins, who blushed and stood with his hands at his sides while Bogart looked on and grinned.

As the bride started up the wide stairway after the ceremony, she turned and tossed her bridal bouquet of two white orchids. It was caught by Hope Bromfield.

The license was issued an hour and a half later, after results of blood tests were determined. The couple then returned to Bromfield's farm.

Only a few persons were on hand when the screen stars arrived unexpectedly shortly after the county offices opened for the day.

They were accompanied by the bride's mother, Mrs. Natalie Bacall, and George Hawkins, manager of Bromfield's sprawling farm.

Miss Bacall gave her name as "Betty Bacall," her age as 20 and her address as Lucas, O., "Route 1," the site of Bromfield's farm. Ohio law requires that the bride must be a resident of the State. Bogart gave his age as 45 and his address Hollywood. They listed their occupations as actress and actor.

Rescuer of 8 Saved in Fire

Discovering a fire in a three-story brick apartment house at Arrow st. and Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, while on his way to work early today, Patrolman John Higgins raced through the building, awakened occupants and rescued five children and their parents before he himself was trapped on the second floor.

Police Sgt. John O'Brien and Patrolman Ray Mills, who learned of Higgins' plight when they arrived at the scene, rushed to his aid with fire extinguishers and blankets. Braving a sheet of flame, they dashed up a stairway and assisted their brother officer to the street.

Two lodgers on the third floor of the building, meanwhile, were carried down ladders by firemen, and taken to Cambridge City Hospital where both were treated for smoke inhalation. They are Stephen Marvellis, 53, and George Hunter, 57.

States Can Hold Reno Divorces Void

WASHINGTON, May 21 (INS)—The Supreme Court in two decisions today ruled that states have the constitutional power to hold illegal Nevada divorces obtained under its six-week residence law.

In one case, decided by a 6 to 3 vote, the high tribunal upheld conviction of a North Carolina man and wife for bigamous cohabitation on ground that North Carolina had the right to brand their previous Nevada divorce a fraud.

In a second case the court upheld the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, which refused to recognize a Nevada divorce obtained by William F. Esenwein, who later moved to Cleveland, in a support case.

In the Esenwein case the court was unanimous, the three justices who dissented in the North Carolina case accepting that decision.

Esenwein was separated from his wife in 1919, and she obtained a support order in the Pennsylvania courts. He twice sought a Pennsylvania divorce.

In 1941 he went to Nevada, arriving in Las Vegas June 23. Six weeks later he sued for divorce. It was granted Sept. 8.

Returning to Cleveland to live, Esenwein filed an application in county court in Allegheny County, Pa., for total relief from the support order.

When the High Court last year upheld the Nevada divorces obtained by O. B. Williams and Mrs. Lillian Shaver Hendrix, it "assumed" that they had obtained genuine residences there, and that the Nevada decrees thus must be recognized by North Carolina.

Williams left North Carolina on May 15, 1940, for Las Vegas, Nev., and in six weeks sued for and obtained a divorce from his absent wife.

Mrs. Hendrix, whose husband worked for Williams, also went to Nevada on May 15, 1940, stayed at the same auto court and got a divorce for which she sued six weeks after arrival. She and Williams were married the same day she got her divorce. Then they retuhned to North Carolina.

They had declared their residence was Nevada in order to obtain a divorce, North Carolina charged this was a sham and that actually they still were residents of North Carolina.

PETAIN TO CALL LEAHY

PARIS, May 21 (AP)—Counsel for Marshal Petain said today that Fleet Adm. William D. Leahy, chief of staff to President Truman, would be asked to come to France as a witness for Vichy government leaders. Leahy formerly was U. S. ambassador to Vichy.

Gen. Ike Had Double to Foil Plot

By GEORGE TUCKER

PARIS, May 21 (AP)—A Chicago lieutenant colonel was used as a double for Gen. Eisenhower last December after the Germans voiced threats against the supreme commander's life, it was disclosed today. Supreme headquarters said, however, the plot was a hoax—a story the Germans spread to heighten their armies' morale.

The double, Lt. Col. Baldwin B. Smith, was placed in Eisenhower's four-star automobile on journeys between St. Germain and Versailles.

Smith volunteered for the role of decoy when the Army clamped an iron-tight curfew on the Paris area and set up the most elaborate machinery of the war to prevent possible destruction of Supreme Allied headquarters and assassination of the commanding general.

The similarity in appearance of Eisenhower and Smith is so striking that they frequently are mistaken for each other.

"When Smith sat in the general's car you couldn't tell the difference," commented Lt. Albert Buonnano of Cranston, R. I.

Five 'Czars' to Run Port 15-Million for Boosting

A $15,000,000 fund to develop the Port of Boston and establish a five-member bipartisan Port of Boston Authority, with pow ers to make it a port of first importance, was provided for in a bill which was to be reported to the House this afternoon by the legislative committee on state administration.

The measure, introduced by Rep. Peter Jordan of Revere, is a redraft of the measure previously sponsored by the Greater Boston Development Committee, of which Jay R. Benton, former Attorney General, is chairman.

Legislators backing the bill expected it would be read in the House this afternoon, then referred at once to the ways and means committee.

It calls for the five port authority members to be appointed by the Governor with the consent and advice of the executive council. The appointments would be for terms of one to five years. The remuneration would be $50 a day for time the members actually worked, with a maximum of $5000 a year. The present port authority would be dissolved.

All plans for the development of Boston harbor would be in the hands of the new authority. It would have jurisdiction over all lands, piers and other facilities owend by the State in the port. It would administer all terminal facilities under its control and keep itself informed regarding the requirements of shipping.

It would keep posted on the best accommodations for ships, railroads, warehouses and industrial establishments in the port. In addition, it would participate in all rate proceedings.

The bill stipulates that two of the five authority members shall be residents of Boston, the others to come from other communities.

Tito Quitting Austria; Still Holds to Trieste

By LYNN HEINZERLING

TRIESTE, May 21 (AP)—Yugoslav forces which penetrated into Carinthia and Styria began moving out of Austria in force today in trucks provided by the British Eighth Army and are expected to be outside the border by night.

(The British Broadcasting Co. reported the Belgrade radio had broadcast a statement by Marshal Tito that the Yugoslav government might negotiate directly with the Italian government for settlement of the Trieste problem.)

A Yugoslav-controlled newspaper here adopted a conciliatory tone toward the message of Marshal Alexander to his troops on Trieste, although a confused situation of dual occupation still prevailed here.

"The maintenance of peace is the task of everybody," said the editorial.

"Now less than ever must we yield to the intrigues of our enemies who always have tried in vain to spread discord among the Allies.

"Tito's Yugoslavja does not wish—now that the people have reached the peace they longed for so long—to be the cause of perturbation, but she must have the right to validate her dignity and respect and while one can discuss everything and find a pacific solution to satisfy various parties there can be no negotiation on rights and dignity."

Truman Sports Yachting Tan

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—President Truman sported a bit of sunburn today after another afternoon on the Potomac river.

The White House said the President spent four or five hours on the river yesterday, on the deck of the presidential yacht, the converted Coast Guard cutter, the Potomac.

The President's party included his 92-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha Truman; Mrs. David F. Wallace, his mother-in-law; Mrs. Truman, their daughter, Margaret, and Miss Reathell Odum, Mrs. Truman's secretary.

Defer Workers For Ship Repair

WASHINGTON, May 21 (INS)—Selective Service headquarters today authorized state directors in California, Oregon and Washington to postpone induction of any registrant employed in Pacific Coast ship repair yards.

Emergency action was requested by Adm. Nimitz, commander in chief, Pacific fleet, because of need for repair of damaged naval vessels.

No Champagne? Hitler Photog Raves

ROSENHEIM, Germany, May 21 (AP)—Heinrich Hoffman, Hitler's personal photographer, was captured by the Seventh Army a week ago. He registered a double complaint from his prison cell today: (1) He had had no champagne for a week, and (2) all his negatives were destroyed in the bombings of Berlin.

JANE RUSSELL
GI's All For Her

Pin-Up's Critic Finds Much Woe In Sage Advice

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, May 21 (AP)—I had to open my big mouth, muses Louis Hayward.

Some weeks ago, Hayward, actor and former Marine captain, told me pin-up pictures might be bad for the morale of soldiers. He argued the GI comes to consider his pin-up as the common type of American girl and becomes frustrated when his gal fails to meet rigid qualifications.

Varga and Petty girls are the worst offenders, he remarked, since such long-stemmed beauties are nonexistent. Hayward suggested blueprints as more educational wall adornments.

"Brother, did you get me into trouble!" he said on a set, where he is co-starring with the ace pin-up of them all—Jane Russell.

"Your story was printed in Yank and in Stars and Stripes and I have been hearing from GI's all over the world—and from generals and commanding officers as well. One of them said, 'What are you trying to do—ruin the morale of my men?'"

T-Sgt. Louis de Fichy in China wrote indignantly: "A GI's wife or gal friend is always tops no matter what glamor girls look like."

LaGuardia Urges Dine-Out Red Points

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP)—Mayor LaGuardia has proposed collection of red ration points from all persons eating meat in restaurants, rationing of poultry, separation of red meat points from fats and extension of meatless days.

Consumer groups endorsed the mayor's plan for collection of red points from restaurant diners. Hotel spokesmen condemned it as too complicated and unworkable. OPA officials here approved it in principle, but said it came "too late."

Men Over 40 Can Quit Army

WASHINGTON, May 21 (INS)—The Army today ruled that soldiers with honorable records may be discharged at the age of 40, releasing an estimated 30,000 men.

A further reduction in the age limit was promised "when the military situation permits."

The order also provided for discharge of enlisted women in the WAC over 40 who have been on active duty for one year or more. An estimated 8000 enlisted WACs become eligible for release.

Prince Defies Gustav, to Wed

STOCKHOLM, May 21 (INS)—King Gustav tonight "most resolutely" refused to grant his consent to the proposed marriage of Prince Carl Johan, fourth son of Crown Prince Gustav Adolf, to Mrs. Kerstin Wijmark, attractive newspaperwoman.

Not only did His Majesty refuse Prince Carl's petition for permission to marry the pretty commoner, but in addition he officially communicated with the crown prince to inform him of this decision.

However, the 29-year-old Prince Carl decided, despite his grandfather's disapproval, to marry Mrs. Wijmark, who is 33. This will entail renunciation of his royal rights and recalls the Duke of Windsor's action when he abdicated the throne of England to marry "the woman I love."

Vandals Wreck Detroit Fish Zoo

DETROIT, May 21 (AP)—Fish exhibits at the Detroit Zoological Park were made a shambles over the week-end by youthful vandals.

Every trout in the zoo's prized stocked trout stream, including many rare varieties, was stoned to death and a 35-pound sturgeon, one of the best specimens in captivity was killed.

British Bishop Would Kill All Defective Children

NOTTINGHAM, England, May 21 (AP)—Bishop Ernest William Barnes of the Church of England advocated euthanasia, or easy death, for defective children and medically controlled sterilization to lesson what he called the "scrub population."

"Fairly often we hear of a child being born pitiably defective in mind or body and of the parents' relief when it dies," the 71-year-old bishop of Birmingham told the annual co-operative congress.

"I am convinced that in such cases enthanasia should be permitted under proper safeguards; equally, from a Christian standpoint as I see the matter, there is no objection to medically controlled sterilization.

"We in England have avoided those problems, but they are problems which, for our national welfare, we must ultimately try to solve."

He said bad racial stock was a growing source of anxiety to thoughful men in every country where western civilization prevailed.

Kerrigan Calls Conference Of Wholesalers on Meat

Declaring he wanted to find out why thousands of Boston families had to endure a meatless weekend, Mayor Kerrigan today called a conference of wholesale meat dealers to be held in his office at 10:30 tomorrow morning.

Scheduled to be present were: Leonard Kane of Armour & Co., Daniel Ford of the Cudahy Packing Co., Edward Childs of Batchelder & Snyder, George Horton of Wilson & Co., Thomas H. Minton of Swift & Co., John H. McManus of John P. Squire & Co., James Rose of the New England Dressed Meat and Wool Co., and Winthrop Chamberlain of Chamberlain & Co.

Mayor Kerrigan announced that any interested citizen "able" to throw light on the acute scarcity of meat of all kinds here would be welcome to attend the conference and present his information. He stated:

"The people of Boston have the right to know why there is such a shortage of meat. As their mayor it is my duty to find out what the situation is.

"Our citizens are willing to go without meat if there is none being distributed elsewhere and if there is no favoritism or incompetence in the handing of the situation. If, however, any government agency can help to improve the situation we want such assistance.

"Our citizens are willing to accept any reasonable sacrifice for the winning of the war but we must know these sacrifices are necessary.

"We want to know," the mayor added, "why thousands of families were without meat the past weekend. If necessary we will carry our fight to Washington. We want fair play for Boston."

Labor Rejects Churchill Plan

BLACKPOOL, England, May 21 (AP)—Labor party members of the cabinet rejected tonight Prime Minister Churchill's suggestion they stay in the coalition government until the end of the war with Japan.

Their action put up to Churchill the next move—whether to call for a summer general election. A breakup of the coalition government is probable.

Maj. Clement Attlee, deputy prime minister, and Home Secretary Herbert Morrison announced, after the issue had been thrashed out behind closed doors by more than 1100 delegates to the Labor party conference, that the delegates had voted unanimously to turn down Churchill's proposal.

3-Year-Old Dumfounds Air Experts

WESTOVER FIELD, May 21 (INS) — Three-year-old Roger Michael Golden had veteran AAF airmen at this First Air Force Base shaking their heads in amazing disbelief today.

In his thin, little-boy voice, he called off correctly the names of 121 different U. S., British, Jap and German airplanes at Westover aircraft indication classroom.

Airmen pointed out that "you can just about count the number of men who can pull off a plane identification feat like this on the fingers of both hands—and still have enough fingers left over to thumb at the Jap warlords."

His father, a former attorney and school teacher of South River, N. J., is a communications officer at this base.

Simmons, Klan Reviver, Dead

ATLANTA, May 21 (AP)—William Joseph Simmons, first imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan organization throughout the South 30 years ago, is dead.

W. J. Simmons

Simmons had been in failing health for four years. His wife survives.

Thanksgiving night in 1915, atop historic Stone Mountain, 20 miles east of Atlanta, the old Klan of Civil War reconstruction days was modernized to become the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan.

Wearing white robes and hoods, klansmen staged torchlight meetings and parades through streets of many cities. White supremacy was emphasized in the klan program.

Submarine Union Asks 40-Hour Week

GROTON, Ct., May 21 (AP)—Said to be the initial move of its kind by a large union in a major war plant in the country, Electric Boat Co. employes are signing a petition, drawn by the Metal Trades Council of New London (AFL), asking that the submarine plant return to a five-day, 40-hour week and that, pending the action, there shall be no further layoffs which lately have been unsually heavy.

BRIDES AMONG GRADUATES—These three graduates who received their diplomas from Boston University today also possess marriage cerefitcates. The bride graduates are (l. to r.) Mrs. James Davis Clark of Lynn, Mrs. Sidney F. Greenwald of Brookline and Mrs. Carolyn Bell Wilson of Stoneham.

Pupils Begin Week's Drive for War Loan

The Seventh War Loan campaign, aiming at a goal of $238,000,000 in bond sales to individuals in Massachusetts, shifted into high gear today as thousands of Boston school children began a week of intensive campaigning among relatives, friends and neighbors, augmenting the work of volunteer workers in their community canvass of homes.

Special citations for outstanding results will be offered by the Treasury dept. and the Navy as an incentive for children. Also there will be keen competition among various schools for a treasury certificate, awarded for that school piling up the greatest sales total.

Reports through Friday showed $48,300,000 worth of bonds sold in the individual classification throughout the state, or 20.3 per cent of the quota. This included $32,800,000 in Series E bonds. As a whole, Greater Boston kept pace with the state. Individual sales here were $30,670,000 or 20.3 per cent of the $150,801,000 quota.

Cesar Romero, Hollywood film star and Coast Guard chief boatswain's mate, will take time out from his appearance with the "Salvos of 1945" to address workers today at 10:30 a. m. at the Converse Rubber Co., Malden. He will address Boston Navy Yard workers at noon. The "Salvos," touring the state with a cast of 75 members of the armed services, will play tonight at Roxbury's Rivoli Theater in interest of the drive.

97 on Franklin Get Hero Medals

NEW YORK, May 21 (INS)—In the greatest mass decoration in American naval history, 97 officers and men of the unconquerable aircraft carrier Franklin stood on the deck of their battle-scarred ship today to receive Navy crosses and silver and bronze stars from Vice Adm. Aubrey W. Fitch.

The first Navy cross was awarded to the Franklin's skipper, Capt. Leslie E. Gehres. Adm. Fitch praised Lt. Com. Joseph O'Callahan, Catholic chaplain of the flat top, who has been recommended for the Congressional Medal of Honor. He said "Father O'Callahan's incredible feats of heroism were on the lips of every survivor."

WERNER BEST SEIZED

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, May 21 (AP)—The Allied Military Commission today arrested Werner Best, former German deputy for Denmark who, since the German capitulation, has been held in custody by the Danish freedom fighters at his villa.

Newton Franklin Survivor Home

When you have been in the water five hours, the sight of a destroyer's lifeboat coming for you is a grand thing S-1c Gerard P. Welch, 19, of Edinboro st., Newtonville, crew member of the bombed carrier Franklin, testified at his home today.

Welch was asleep in his bunk when the Jap torpedo bomber scored a bull's-eye on the carrier, March 19. "The explosion threw me out of the bunk," he related, "and I started for the flight deck. It was tough going, there was so much fire and smoke.

"I finally made it topside and reached the fantail," he said. "There were about 200 of us. The flames were coming nearer all of the time. Then there was another explosion and I was blown into the water. I bobbed around five hours until a lifeboat crew from a destroyer fished me out.

"I hadn't gotten a burn aboard the carrier."

Welch is home on a 30-day leave. He joined the Navy Oct. 12, 1943 while a student at Our Lady's High School, Newton. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Lynch, his father a Navy veteran of World War I.

Sallada to Head Naval Aeronautics

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—President Truman nominated Rear Admiral Harold B. Sallada to be chief of the Navy's bureau of aeronautics with the same rank.

The President also nominated Monnett B. Davis of Colorado to be minister to Denmark. Davis is now a personal representative of the President in Denmark with the rank of minister.

Tattletale

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 21 (AP)—Stray chickens were eating seeds as fast as he could plant them in his victory garden, H. Clay Gott of the attorney generals office reported.

So he attached a thin string to a hole bored in corn kernels, and to the other end tied a card reading: "I have been a bad bird. Please keep me home before I get killed."

The corn, string and cards are gone. Gott is waiting.

Urge Realism On B. U. Grads

Asserting that the United States never again could take the risk of standing alone in the world, President Charles Seymour of Yale University urged today that the nation join with other great powers in international co-operation based on facts and not ideals.

President Seymour was the principal speaker at the 72d annual commencement exercises of Boston University at Symphony Hall and was one of nine distinguished citizens granted honorary degrees.

Seymour charged this nation with failure to accept its rightful place in the League of Nations 25 years ago and thus becoming, in part, responsible for the present world conflict.

President Seymour was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

Other honorary degree recipients included Alice Stone Blackwell, pioneer for women's rights, doctor of humanities; Horace A. Carter, manufacturer and banker, doctor of commercial science; President Hugh P. Baker of Massachusetts State College, doctor of science in education; President Joseph H. Edge of Dakota Wesleyan University, doctor of science in education; William R. Greeley, architect, doctor of fine arts; Sergei Koussevitzky, Boston Symphony conductor, doctor of music; Atty. Arthur T. Vanderbilt, doctor of civil law, and Municipal Court Justice Bert E. Holland, doctor of laws.

Degrees were awarded to 572 students, 401 of them in the regular course and the others for advanced standing.

None of the graduates was from the school of medicine, whose calendar year differs from the rest of the university under the war acceleration program.

After the academic procession into the hall, the meeting was called to order by former Gov. Frank G. Allen, chairman of the board of trustees, and the invocation was given by the Rev. Lewis O. Hartman, Methodist bishop of Boston. The benediction at the close of the program was pronounced by President Edge of Dakota Wesleyan.

President and Mrs. Daniel L. Marsh were hosts at luncheon at the Algonquin Club after the exercises to honorary degree recipients, trustees and university deans.

The university's fourth wartime commencement observance will close tonight with Boston University Pops Night at Symphony Hall.

Latin-Americans Back Regional Compromise

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21 (AP)—Agreement among the Big Five and Latin American nations on plans for regional self defense systems within a world organization today put the United Nations Conference safely past its biggest stumbling block.

Russian acceptance of the regional plan with only minor changes in wording was followed by signs that an early solution of Soviet-American differences over a system of international trusteeships is close at hand.

American military authorities were understood to feel that the security arrangements already on or in the making offer full protection to the United States regardless of how the projected league works out.

Oh, Let 'Em Eat Nuts

WASHINGTON, May 21 (INS)—The War Food Administration today has the solution to the meat shortage in a nutshell.

A mimeographed nutrition bulletin circulated by WFA advises that nuts be made the main dish at dinner as a stand-in for the steak you can't get.

Nuts are to be garnished with custard pie or a glass of milk just to make sure you keep up your strength.

If nuts are out of season you are directed by WFA to try six other meat substitutes including dry peas, dry beans, eggs, fish, cheese and poultry to cover the area of your platter where the lamb chops used to be.

Dry beans and dry peas should also be accompanied by custard pie or a glass of milk.

Baked beans are acceptable as more or less secondary substitutes for meat. They, too, must be balanced by milk, custard pie or some food containing cheese or eggs.

The foods involved in the WFA menu manipulation are technically known as "meat alternates." WFA defines the technical term meticulously.

Boyle Is Denied Bail in Killing

Charged with the gangland slaying of Joseph T. "Harpo" Mahoney in 1941, John A. Boyle, 39, of Brush Hill rd., Milton, today pleaded not guilty in Roxbury court and was held without bail for hearing May 26.

The continuance was granted by Judge Frankland W. L. Miles at the request of Francis E. Kelly, counsel for Boyle.

Boyle surrendered to Dudley st. station police after being sought for three and a half years.

Although Boyle gave no information about his whereabouts, Kelly said that his client, father of six children, told him he was miles from Southampton st., Roxbury, when Mahoney was shot.

Aids Nazis, Loses Citizenship Plea

Informed by an immigration examiner that Mrs. Hilda Bauer, 56, of Hewlett st., Roslindale, raised funds to help German prisoners of war interned in Canada, Federal Judge George C. Sweeney today denied her petition for American citizenship.

Judge Sweeney told Mrs. Bauer he was not satisfied as to her loyalty to the principles of the Constitution.

James P. O'Sullivan, immigration examiner, said Mrs. Bauer was a native of Germany and came to America 22 years ago.

The oath of citizenship was administered by Judge Sweeney to 250 other men and women in naturalization sessions.

Drowned Italian PW's Body Found

The body of Agostino Barbetta, 21, Italian prisoner of war, who drowned last March 16 while stationed with an Italian service unit at Ft. Andrews, was found today by a coast guard auxiliary patrol floating about 50 yards offshore from Pemberton Pt., Hull.

Barbetta fell from the stern of a boat on which he was riding from the mainland to Ft. Andrews.

Air Defeat Irked Hitler Most

By HOWARD COWAN

BERCHTESGADEN, May 21 (AP)—Hitler's secretaries said today the inability of the German air force to meet the challenge of British, American and Russian aircraft gave Hitler some of his worst moments of the war.

It was directly responsible for the coolness between Hitler and Hermann Goering.

Seven confidential secretaries who recorded the secrets of the star chamber sessions between Hitler and his henchmen provided these details.

"Production of German fighters bogged down completely in February, 1944," after the British-American air offensive to smash Nazi production, Hans Helling, who seems most familiar with German Air Force affairs, related.

"Production was transferred from the air ministry to the ministry of munitions and armaments," and thus out of Goering's province.

"Hitler constantly preached he must have air superiority. He advocated a light, fast, high-altitude bomber—like the British Mosquito—whose only defense would be its speed. Goering refused to agree that his two basic types, the Messerschmitt 109 and the Focke-Wulf 190, were inadequate.

"Hitler fretted because planes were not armed with heavier caliber guns.

"'No wonder,' Hitler said, 'we lose four planes to the enemy's one,' when told a flier had to approach within 100 feet to shoot down an Allied bomber.

"Carefully hoarding all the fighters he could to meet the ever-increasing threat of invasion, Hitler was able to scrape up 12 squadrons of 68 planes apiece a few weeks before the Normandy D-Day—816 planes.

"So many planes were ruined in moving around to forward airfields that the average squadron's strength was only 35 planes when the invasion did come.

"From conversations between Goering and Hitler, it seemed that was one of the worst faults of the Luftwaffe—so many planes were ruined before they ever got into the air."

"What about the Heinkel 177 that Goering mentioned?" Helling was asked.

All seven secretaries made wry faces and gestured their contempt.

"If Guensche hadn't killed Hitler the HE-177 would have," said Helling, referring to Hitler's bodyguard in Berlin who, the secretaries say, was detailed to see that Hitler did not fall into the hands of the Russians and to kill him and dispose of the body.

"That was the biggest flop of the war," he added. "They had 50,000 people working on the production of that plane that took 10 tons of fuel for one flight and only got a top speed of 250 miles an hour."

Production of jet-propelled planes was equally disappointing.

They were supposed to be ready to go into production at the beginning of 1943, Helling said, but it was a year and a half later before they could see any results. Altogether 1200 jets and 2500 power elements were produced.

The surprise attack on Allied air bases on the continent on Jan. 1, 1945, during the Ardennes offensive, was staged strictly against Hitler's wishes, Helling said.

"'Every plane lost over American territory means a pilot lost too,' the Fuehrer said. 'They have so many airfields now it makes no difference anyway.' But Goering made the attack.

"Hitler never did learn how many planes were lost. It was at least 400. Goering first said 250, but every time there was another meeting Hitler would ask him and Goering would say 25 more, 40 more were missing. Finally it just wasn't brought up any more.

The men who recorded the conferences between Hitler and his closest advisors—and many of the conferences at which Hitler himself was not present—said Hitler never was truthfully informed of American production figures.

One of Hitler's three outstanding tantrums of the war was thrown as a result of the "defeat of the German airforce at Stalingrad and the collapse of the effort to supply the troops by air transport," said Ludwig Krieger, oldest of the secretaries.

"Another was in February, 1944, when Guderian was supposed to attack in Pomerania. Hitler had told him to wait a few days longer, but Guderian attacked prematurely and failed."

The third outburst was when Hitler and Goering had words in September, 1944, over the continued failure of the Luftwaffe. Hitler was ill for a week and had to be put to bed.

Yanks Recover $6,000,000 Art

ALT AUSSEE, Austria, May 21 (INS)"The famed Jan Vermeer masterpiece, "The Painter in His Study," for which a reputed offer of $6,000,000 by the late Andrew Mellen was once refused, has been unearthed in an Alt Aussee salt mine, U. S. Third Army officials announced today.

The historic Dutch painting, part of the Czernin collection in Vienna before stolen by the Nazis, was found by American engineers opening dynamited passages into the salt mines.

Credit is really due to the BLESSED Basement

Below is an unsolicited letter that arrived recently—the same day we told you about a dress purchased here that had been sent to England.

In the paper this morning you tell about an English woman's pleasure over a dollar dress bought in the Basement. We could tell you that during all the long years of the war we have sent aid and comfort to relatives and friends in the shape of underwear. Do you remember a big sale of tuck-stitch pants and undervests at 29¢? We bought quantities in different sizes, and our friends, their houses made draughty by the blitz, have been pathetically grateful for the warmth and protection they have afforded. And those stockings!! We bought lots of them when you had that grand sale of "seconds" and they have found their way across the ocean to the great joy of people who have had to go bare-legged in the raw cold of an English winter—or wear patched, shapeless, darned things that did not deserve the name of stockings. Ecstatic letters come to us about our wonderful gifts, but we know the credit is really due to the Blessed Basement and that our only virtue is a sharp eye for real values and a willingness to make an almost daily trip to avail ourselves of some grand opportunity.

Thank you Mrs. X—— as you so well express it a daily trip through always brings some grand opportunity—our advertised lots are only a small picture of the multitudinous opportunities that daily jam-pack this big double neck underground bargain wonderland—an amaze-mint of savings!

Holy Hour Bids Wounded Vets

Wounded servicemen convalescing at Cushing General Hospital, Chelsea Naval Hospital and Brighton Marine Hospital were invited today to be guests of honor at the holy hour for men at Fenway Park, June 10, by the Rev. Frederic J. Allchin, diocesan director of the Union of Holy Name Societies.

The wounded heroes, only special guests invited to attend the event, will be given the personal blessing of Archbishop Richard J. Cushing during the ceremonies.

Each of the veterans attending also will be given rosary beads which have been given a special apostolic blessing, according to Fr. Allchin, who served as a chaplain in World War I and now is pastor of St. Mary's Church, Charlestown.

More than 50,000 laymen and 500 clergymen from all parts of the archdiocese are expected to attend the huge outdoor demonstration. In the event of rain on June 10, the ceremony will be postponed until the following Sunday, June 17.

Poor Weather Increases Need of V-Garden Crops

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agriculture School and Director of the Boston Record-American-Advertiser Garden on the Common.

The inclement weather since April 21 will be an adverse factor affecting the seasonal supply of fresh vegetables grown by commercial farmers, as well as holding back V-gardeners. Due to delay in planting, it is estimated that farm yields have been reduced by about 20 per cent.

Because of these adverse conditions it is all the more important to have V-Gardeners make every effort to grow a maximum amount in their gardens from now on. The soil is accumulating a good supply of moisture which will make crops grow when the weather is right.

Rain and low temperature affects plant food. Due to heavy rains and cool weather soils may need more attention as far as plant foods are concerned. Gardeners who used animal manures may find that their crops are slow in starting. This is caused by the low temperatures of the soil which retard bacterial action necessary to break down the manures.

Early potatoes can now be planted. If you plan to have a few rows of early potatoes for the late summer rise they should be planted within a week. The best variety for practical purposes is the Irish Cobbler.

Cut seed pieces so that there are two eyes to each piece keeping the pieces about two ounces in weight. Plant

Yank Officer Finds Daughter in Leipzig

DUESSELDORF, Germany, May 21 (AP)—An American officer who hunted the bombed wastes of German cities for his long lost daughter told a stranger tale than fiction story today of the "Cinderella of Leipzig."

Maj. Arnold Wilson Samuels, 44, of Columbus, O., came overseas to fight Germany for a second time, and to find his only child.

"In February when my division, the 94th, was storming Trier, I asked permission of my commander, Maj. Gen. Maloney, to go in with the first wave of combat infantry," said Samuels.

"Gen. Maloney knew I had not seen my daughter, Elaine Marilyn, since 1928, when she was 3 years old, and my first wife had taken her back to her grandparents in Trier.

"Trier had been badly hit. Some of the townspeople thought the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Heinrich Schroeder, had moved to Leipzig with my daughter several years before."

Leipzig fell, and Maj. Samuels got permission to go there. Lt. Anton Viditz-Ward, a friend, went with him.

In the ruins of Leipzig Samuels found an American military government office and reported, while St. Viditz-Ward went alone to find if anything remained of an address on Steinstrasse, last known residence of the Shroeder family.

"Anton came back in 45 minutes. With him was the sweetest young girl I had ever seen in my life. She took one look at me and was in my arms. I was stunned with happiness."

Lt. Viditz-Ward explained that the Schroeder house was the only one still standing in the neighborhood. The grandparents, both in their 70s, and their grandchildren had escaped injury in seven heavy air raids.

On the door of the house was a name plate—"Elaine Samuels—American."

The interview with Samuels was interrupted by the appearance of a lissome, dark-haired, brown-eyed girl of 19 in a flowered silk dress.

"My daughter," Samuels said proudly. "We have a family suite in the divisional hotel. At our mess she was served the first eggs and oranges she had eaten in four years, and the first chocolate candy she'd had in six years."

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—Heres a tongue-twister for you. If a person was discharged from one branch of the service, collected mustering-out pay and re-enlisted, would he be eligible for mustering-out pay when discharged for the second time? J. P. Newburyport.

A—Very simple to answer . . . mustering out pay is paid only once to a serviceman.

Q—My husband has advised me that after being hurt in France he was transferred to an evacuation hospital in England. What does the term "evacuation" mean? L. F. W., Boston.

That is a base hospital out of a combat area. Eventually he will be returned from that hospital to this country.

Q—My aunt who had no children of her own brought a nephew from Ireland to this country 12 years ago. He became part of her household. Five years ago her husband died. The nephew then became her sole support. Two years ago he was inducted into service and declared her as a dependent for which she has been receiving an allotment check monthly. Recently he wrote stating he was going to get married and he would not be able to continue the aunt as a dependent, because he would have to make allotment to wife. Can't she still continue to get allotment where she has acted as his mother for 12 years and still is dependent upon him? J. F. B., Jamaica Plain.

A—The serviceman can still permit allotment to be sent to aunt by consenting to an additional $5 being deducted from his pay each month. The amount of $22 would be deducted toward the wife's $50 allotment and the additional $5 for the aunt's allotment. Total $27 deducted.

Q—Is it possible to have an undesirable discharge changed to an honorable one? If so, what is the procedure? D. R., Somerville.

A—If you believe that the undesirable discharge given you was not proper and you were not deserving of it, under the terms of GI Bill you may file for a review of case. If Army, write Secretary of War. If Navy, write Secretary of Navy. Applications for such reviews may be obtained at Fust Naval District Hq. or Fust Service Command Hq. here in Boston.

Q—My husband lost his discharge pin shortly after being discharged from Navy. He wrote for another, but was told he could not obtain a duplicate. I understood that re-issues were being made for these emblems. E. T. W., Wellesley.

A—The Army has been re-issuing buttons to those who have lost their original, but thus far the Navy has not adopted that procedure. Understand that regulations permitting the sale of such buttons in certain Army and Navy stores has been put into effect. Necessary to produce honorable discharge paper.

Q—I have been informed that men over 42 years of age in the service may request discharge. My husband volunteered 3 years ago and is now 48 years old, stationed in this country. What procedure is taken to obtain discharge? ANXIOUS WIFE.

A—He has privilege of requesting discharge by making application through his commanding officer. Men over 42 years of age are allowed to request separation from service under honorable conditions and entitled to all veteran benefits.

Q—My husband, father of three children, is overseas, serving with the Navy. Two of the children are ill and I am about to enter a hospital for a serious operation. Whom do I contact to have him returned home or discharged for dependency reasons? M. A. R., Boston.

A—Contact local chapter of the Red Cross, Home Service Dept., relate your story. If unable to leave home, telephone and they will send a representative to see you.

THE TRUTH ABOUT TRIESTE

NOTWITHSTANDING the fact that the northeastern provinces of Italy, including the port city of Trieste, were surrendered by the Germans to the Anglo-American armies and thus became indisputably an Anglo-American theater of operations, the Yugoslavian forces of Marshal Tito have occupied the area and are attempting to administer it.

The same fact applies to neighboring areas in Austria.

There is nothing to be gained by concealing or suppressing the grave implications of this situation, or the tense political and military atmosphere surrounding it.

For many days, the Allied armed forces have been standing grimly on this powder keg—never for a moment without imminent danger of a sudden incident providing the spark to touch off the whole business.

The British navy has moved into the Trieste vicinity, quietly but in considerable force.

The American and British governments have served notice upon Marshal Tito, virtually in the form of an ultimatum, to withdraw—and he has not done so.

Acting Secretary of State Joseph C. Grew has bluntly said that the vital issue here involved is that of "the settlement of international disputes by orderly process rather than unilateral action."

And the firm policy of the United States, he asserted, is that "territorial changes should be made only after thorough study and after full consultation and deliberation between the various governments concerned."

WE ARE CONFRONTED with a very serious and most explosive situation in Trieste—and there is no sense in believing or pretending otherwise.

And the factor that is making it serious and explosive is not Marshal Tito, or the Yugoslavian force he controls, or even the Yugoslav nation as a whole.

If we had only Marshal Tito to deal with in this matter, it would lend itself to an easy solution.

But as the American and British governments well know, and the American and British peoples must not forget, behind Tito in this matter is SOVIET RUSSIA.

Let us not be deceived that Tito has ignored and defied the American and British governments, and brashly occupied and administered an Anglo-American theater of military and political operations, on his own authority or account.

It is not Tito who stands astride Trieste today, but JOSEF STALIN.

It is not the territorial ambition of Yugoslavia that has precipitated this crisis, but the imperial aspiration of Russia.

It is not a clash between the Anglo-American armies and the Yugoslavian occupation force which impends, awaiting only the spark to touch off the Trieste powder keg—but the dark and ominous spectre of Russia's influence and urging behind the scenes.

TITO IS Stalin's puppet in this, as he is in all other things.

It is Russia, not Yugoslavia, with which we are dealing at Trieste.

It is Stalin, not Tito, upon whom our ultimatum has been served.

This is the truth of the matter, however reluctant we may be to recognize and acknowledge the truth.

It is more than a game of bluff that is being played out in northeastern Italy and Austria.

It is a gigantic game of international POWER POLITICS.

And it is momentous in its scope and ominous in its implications.

Though you sleep, my babe,
You smile up at me
So I know the angels are whispering to thee
While they are keeping watch o'er thy sleeping
O, pray to them baby, softly with me.
Say thou wouldst rather
They'd watch o'er thy father
For I know the angels are whispering to thee.
—SAMUEL LOVER

AN OLD IRISH belief is that when a child smiles in its sleep it is talking with the angels . . . A U. S. Marine never permits his bride to extend her cheek for the kiss after the ceremony. He invariably has the situation well in hand. Timid bridegrooms should profit by the excellent example set by the Marines. Before me is a news photo of U. S. Marine Cpl. Robert Waugh of Chicago kissing his bride, the former Helen Quigley of Evanston, Ill. The corporal is shown taking his bride firmly and completely in his arms and planting a terrific kiss right smack on the comely young lady's lips. Further, indications are that the osculation is of more than the usual length. It all brings to mind Byron's lines:

Their lips drew near, and clung into a kiss.
A long, long kiss, a kiss of youth and love.
Each kiss a heart-quake, for a kiss's strength.
I think it must be reckoned by its length.

MARRYING YOUNG: Have been hearing from an astonishing number of feminine subscribers who married at the tender age of 14 and lived happily ever after. Fourteen-year-old girls are considerably more mature and much smarter than 14-year-old boys. When 14, I was still struggling to graduate from grammar school. Anyway, what I started to report was that 39-year-old Mrs. Helen Leatherwood of New York celebrated her 25th wedding anniversary on March 4, 1945. This charming matron, who was a blushing bride at the age of 14, is the mother of 10 children. She has two sons in the armed services.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Am I right when I tell my wife that the songs "Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage" and "Take Back Your Gold" were both written before 1900? A—"Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage" was written by Arthur Lamb and Harry Von Tilzer in 1900. So if you made a bet with the little lady on that one you lose. However, "Take Back Your Gold" was written by Morris Rosenfeld in 1897. It was introduced and popularized by Imogen Comer at the Bowdoin Sq. Theater, Boston.

HER PETS: Writes a Californian: "We have for pets a cat and a duck. I bought a 25-pound sack of cat food for the cat and a 25-pound sack of duck mash for the duck. Now the cat will not eat the cat food, and the duck will not eat the duck food. However, the cat will eat the duck food and the duck will eat the cat food. What I would like to know is duck food better for a cat than cat food and is cat food better for a duck than duck food?"

CALLIES: In San Francisco, I have three readers named Callie in one family. But the Callie is an abbreviation of California, which is the first name of each of these three: A grandmother, mother and daughter. The first in the family to be named California was the great grandmother who passed on about a year ago. She was born in the 1850's in the town of Rough and Ready, Cal. Her maiden name was California Colton.

LAST WORDS: The last words of Ernie Pyle were: "Are you all right?" These were spoken to the officer who was at the great newspaperman's side when he was shot by a Jap sniper. The remark was characteristic of Ernie. What made him great and what endeared him to the hearts of millions was that he was always thinking of others.

SIDELIGHTS: The war is ended in Europe but British motorists are still allowed only enough gas to go 120 miles a month. If you were limited up to 30 miles a week, what would you use it for? Would you save it up for a week-end trip or would you let your wife use the mileage to go marketing . . . People who made bets as to the end of the European war are now trying to get a decision as to the exact time the conflict over there did end. According to the present records in Washington, the European war ended at 6:01 p. m., Eastern War Time, May 8, 1945.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THE MOST fascinating political novelty since the proposed Ham 'n' Eggs amendment to the California Constitution has lately sprouted in the dank fungus beds of queer ideas in Los Angeles and Hollywood.

Westbrook Pegler

Ham 'n' Eggs, it may be remembered, was a Hitlerian proposition of 15,000 words, a document so long, complex and wild that only a few editorial writers and lawyers bothered to struggle through it and understand its portent.

Many of the unions, nevertheless, endorsed it and the Communists of course gave it howling support because it would have repudiated money and the public debt, abolished the State and Federal Constitutions, and placed a dictator above the Governor with power to appoint his own successor.

Strenuous efforts of the intelligent minority of the population, frightened by the enormity of a plan of dictatorship disguised as an old age pension, were necessary to defeat it at the polls by a small margin.

* * *

THE AGITATION not only in Congress but among well-meaning outsiders for an increase in the pay of the members of both Houses, has prompted a coldblooded suggestion that union organizations might "adopt" pet statesmen in both chambers and subsidize them to the extent of their present pay, which is $10,000 a year.

I have inquired of a friend in the Treasury Intelligence Service, an authority on most tax problems, and find that, as far as he knows, there is no law to forbid the gift or acceptance of such bounty.

The money would be a gift in each case and taxable as such, but a raise in pay would be taxable, under both Federal and State laws in those States having the income tax, whereas the gift in most cases would not be subject to a State gift tax.

There would seem to be no violation of the Corrupt Practices Act in such transaction.

Existing law, forbidding payments to members of Congress by persons interested in pending legislation, apparently might be avoided with ease and grace.

* * *

A SECOND GLIMPSE reveals, however, the possibility that big business interests too might play the game of patron and protege.

The United States Steel Corporation or a chain of retail stores, for example, could not legally make such a gift, but a group of steel corporations or chain store companies could form an institute or foundation, meaning, frankly, a lobby supported by contributions from the component member companies, and use its funds to encourage its friends.

And, of course, there is the old reliable subterfuge of the honorarium for learned discourses before public meetings.

By this device, a Congressman still sitting received, a few years ago, about $18,000 from a corrupt company, later exposed as such, for pushing legislation for its special interests.

So it is not the possibility that is new here.

The possibility has always existed unnoticed. THE POINT IS THAT THIS INTERESTING THOUGHT HAS BEEN DISCUSSED HERE AT A TIME WHEN CONGRESS IS DEMANDING A RAISE.

* * *

ALTHOUGH THE present Congress is the best since 1933, the fact remains that the legislative branch, as an institution, now occupies a degraded position.

It has not asserted its manhood against the Executive, the Supreme Court or the unions, and, if Congress does not soon, by positive action, establish its superiority over the union movement, it may never be able to do so.

This movement has an income of about one thousand million dollars a year.

Various union bosses at times have declared frankly their intention to spend as much money as might be necessary to elect candidates pledged in advance to obey orders.

They have elected many such candidates and they have obeyed orders.

Congress can save its own independence by passing laws to forbid the subsidy in any form or guise from any source.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 21—I'll bet none of you in your wildest dreams ever thought Bob Hope would follow Rudolph Valentino! If ever two actors were unlike it is the comic Hope and the smooth Latin lover.

Well, believe it or not, Bob gets one of Rudy's greatest vehicles, "Monsieur Beaucaire," for his first motion picture when he returns to Paramount August 1.

Bob Hope

Twenty years ago Booth Tarkington's "Monsieur Beaucaire" was made with Rudy, Bebe Daniels and Doris Kenyon, and it was a lovely picture. Can you see Hope wearing all those beautiful clothes of the period? But it isn't without its comedy moments either. Hope, after making love to all the beautiful ladies of the court, impersonates a woman—and he'll love that. Remember Jack Benny in "Charley's Aunt?" To Sol Siegel, who returns to Paramount, goes the credit for thinking up this one for Bob.

JANE WYMAN had virus pneumonia and took her time out to get well, taking a suspension rather than report at the studio until she felt fit. She hasn't been back on the home lot, at Warners, in many weeks, not since before she played in "Last Week-End" at Paramount. She is called back now for "Night and Day" to join Cary Grant and Alexis Smith, in the life of Cole Porter. Cary is making plans to go overseas as soon as he finishes at Warners. You'll find many of our biggest stars answering the plea this summer for entertainment in Europe.

"INFORMATION PLEASE," the intellectual hour of questions and answers on the radio, has come to Hollywood for talent. Gregory Ratoff, the popular Russian director, and Reginald Gardiner, well known actor, have been invited by John Kieran, F. P. Adams and Clifton Fadiman to put on six shows in France and Germany. Darryl Zanuck is trying to arrange to let Greg and Reggie go. Unfortunately, Greg would have to leave the day he finishes "Kittens on the Keys" and, of course, if there were retakes, it would be too bad. It looks more favorable for Reggie. It would be a great experience for both of them.

THE PLANS of the Psychological Warfare Division of SHAEF are going to make Herr Goebbel's propaganda against Hollywood movies look pretty silly. Over 40 of the biggest pictures made in Hollywood the past five years have been dubbed in German just to show the German people how wrong the Nazis were on American culture. All this was done in conjunction with the British in Paris, according to John Krimsky, who returned recently from Europe where he was heading this project for OWI.

LT. TYRONE POWER has plans for when-the-war-is-over and he is no longer with the Marines. He and two other lieutenants he met on Guam are forming a commercial airplane company. Tyrone's got flying in his blood since he's been doing it in the South Pacific, but of course I don't for a moment think this will interfere with his acting career because we would hate to believe we aren't going to see him on the screen again. Yet it's a funny thing so many of these boys—Col. Jimmy Stewart, for instance—seem to have lost a taste for pictures, but maybe when peace comes they will feel differently.

I THOUGHT I was sticking my neck out when I chose Clark Gable as the greatest lover on the screen for the 15th anniversary number of Modern Screen, and sure enough the darts are flying. The biggest kickback comes from Van Johnson addicts. Now, really, kids! Van's a swell guy and a good actor but he isn't in the Gable-Gilbert-Valentino class yet. But a good argument never hurts anybody. I always say. This issue of Modern Screen, by the way, has gone overseas to the boys. I know they love to get movie news for many of them write me and it's safe to say 90 per cent are ardent movie fans.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Hal Rosson, cameraman once married to Jean Harlow is rifling with Jan Clayd or so I hear; Richard Fraser, well known ex-Navy pilot, to Virginia Peterson, cafe society operator. Lt. Howard Hughes, who co-starred in "Jet Pilot" with Janet Leigh, is confident it will be a commercial success and that Janet will be ready after baby. Arnold Gingrich down at Esquire, Key Kyser has been okayed for overseas entertainment and is to play Notre Dame, before Lord Jackman. Lana Turner is pregnant to Bob Topping. A couple of months ago it was learned there were secretly married Lieut. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt's son, on ten days' Army business. He's been back conferring with President Truman.

MORRIS LILLY, who seems to married May John Huston, is living again with Bruce Cabot, the surprise star of the year is Mad Man Muntz. Will this make him Private Mad Man? Anyway I'm betting he'll be a good soldier. Andy Russell is calling the house he bought from Ann Dvorak for his 1 de "Rancho Amor" in honor of the song "Amor" that brought him fame. Tony Martin, who has such a bad break at the beginning of the war, has been promoted to technical sergeant, his friends will be glad to learn. He is recovering from a bad attack of tropical fever which had him hospitalized in India. Walter Winchell getting some laughs at the comedy at Snapsy Maxes. Kim Hunter leaves next week for overseas for a part in Arthur Rank's "A Matter of Life and Death." She was asked for a release from Selznick.

NEWS OF Merle Oberon's recent marital mixup in Mexico, where she is seeking a divorce from Sir Alexander Korda, reminded Carl Brisson that Merle first met her present-but-soon-past husband when she was appearing with Brisson as a bit player in his London musical, "Wonderbar." Of course years have passed and fame arrived before La Oberon eventually married Korda, but Gertrude Musgrove and Joan Gardner, who also were in "Wonderbar" with Brisson, both wed brothers of this same Korda, whom they met at the same time. The Kordas, it would seem, really hit the Jill-pot in "Wonderbar."

WASHINGTON, May 21—Here is a thought I would like to leave with those who think for a living. As everyone in this seemingly boundless category assures me, the wear and tear on the brain is something awful.

Dick Tregaskis

So why won't the Treasury permit thinkers to claim income tax deduction for depreciation of the head?

★ ★ ★

IT OCCURS I may have left myself a bit open with the above. So let me hasten to say —before you beat me to it— that I do not claim membership in the thinkers. Consequently, it will not be necessary to grab pen in hand and write in:

"So you think you think, do you? Well, let me tell you—in your case it only rhymes with 'think.'"

Note: If that last is too subtle I will be glad to come around to your place and whack you across the bean with a slapstick.

★ ★ ★

I GOT INTO what might be called a peripatetic debate on this subject in New York the other night. The debate began at Toots Shor's and continued across town to the Stork Club. In it, at various stages, were such outstanding thinkers of our time as Brain Truster Shor himself; Mr. Lawrence Wood (Chip) Robert, former assistant Secretary of the Treasury; Mr. Herb Polesie, the radio typhoon; Mr. Morton Downey, who thinks eight to the bar; Mr. Ham Fisher, whose oldest boy, Joe Palooka, is in the Army, and last, but looking as if he had been raised on yeast —Mr. Richard Tregaskis, celebrated author of "Guadalcanal Diary."

Mr. Tregaskis, incidentally, is 6 feet, 7 inches high, and weighs less than 185 pounds, which may give you a general idea of his stature. He told us a very gripping story about his feet.

It seems he is unable to wear ready-made shoes for the simple reason that his left foot requires a size 14 and his right foot size 13. In addition to not matching, both of these sizes are a trifle huge.

Because he cannot possibly get replacements in the battle theaters, Mr. Tregaskis always has to take extra footgear with him. Oh—I forgot to say—he was leaving for the Pacific the night we were with him—and is now on his way—as a staff correspondent for a weekly magazine

"This is no kidding," said Richard. "I had to get a permit for excess baggage—just to cover my extra shoes!"

★ ★ ★

MR. SHOR, who thinks at the drop of a hat, or chateau (as he thinks the French put it) professed to be very modest. Hanging his head—which is quite a feat because it weighs 85 pounds alone—he demurred:

"If the Government allowed depreciation on the head I would owe it a lot of money!"

Said Mr. Downey:

"The basic idea seems sound, but what about my dearest friends? They certainly should be allowed double depreciation allowance because they are so two-faced!"

★ ★ ★

MR. FISHER murmured that this was "Just like Dear Old Morton—always thinking about his friends!" The distinguished cartoonist added that Mr. Downey should create a sinking fund—and stick his head in it.

Mr. Robert said that when he was in the Treasury he would have insisted that people with two heads pay more tax, instead of less.

"Two heads are better than one," he observed sententiously.

★ ★ ★

SAID MR. POLESIE: "If the government would allow for wear and tear on my head I would certainly depreciate it."

We shot him.

★ ★ ★

FOR SOME REASON, which no one around the premises has been able to figure out satisfactorily, the office of the clerk of the Senate has had a terrific demand in the last couple of weeks for copies of the Treaty of Versailles

This much-debated treaty, as you know, was never ratified by the Senate. It was submitted on July 10, 1919, and is listed as "Senate Document No. 49, 66th Congress, First Session."

The thing runs 192 pages. The Senate had more than 1000 copies printed.

In the intervening years there were few requests for copies. Then, shortly before the collapse of Germany, the demand began.

"This is the darndest thing," said a clerk, after digging out a copy for still another applicant. "I just counted—and we only have 12 copies left!"

He added sardonically:

"I wouldn't mind betting that a lot of these people are going to read the first and last page of the thing and then write a book about it. They'll be some books. I've been studying the thing for 25 years and haven't figured it out yet!"

The right name, incidentally, is not the Treaty of Versailles. It is "The Treaty of Peace with Germany."

Boston After Dark

MONDAY MUSINGS: Thus far no news has come from conquered Nazi-land concerning the fate or whereabouts of one, Dr. Herbert Scholz . . . Although the name is familiar to many prominent and socially-married Bostonians, it may require a moment or two for the general public to identify the gentleman . . . He was the German consul in Boston . . . The Washington correspondents went on record as believing that the handsome and suave Dr. Scholz was even higher in Nazi circles . . . In fact, he was accused of being the real leader of the Gestapo in the United States.

★ ★ ★

DR. SCHOLZ MAINTAINED a lovely home in Chestnut Hill during his Boston regime . . . He and Frau Scholz entertained lavishly . . . The doctor himself was only a $2 bettor when he visited New England racetracks, and had enough regard for the "Yankee dol-lar" to check any inclination he might have had to sow Uncle Sam's choicest greenery over the countryside . . . Waiters and bartenders say that the charming Herr Doktor was a "short sport," or, in Americanese—a "cashoff" . . . Frau Sholz, on the other hand, was hostess at lavish parties and a free-spender . . . But she was the daughter of the head of a German chemical trust and reputedly the wealthiest woman connected intimately with the Nazi party.

★ ★ ★

THEIR AMERICAN debacle came before we entered the war . . . In July, 1941, all German consulates were ordered closed by the State Dept., and the Scholzes of Chestnut Hill and Berlin soon enjoyed a free ride on the Gripsholm, back to Nazi-land . . . Yet they left a host of acquaintances—and possibly a cluster of friends—when they departed by request . . . Scholz was a member of the Hitler party at its very beginning . . . He took part in some of the early brawls and street-fighting in Munich . . . And he rose to high estate in the Hitler - Goering-Goebbels - Himmler set-up.

★ ★ ★

NOT SINCE he left Boston, however, has the name of Dr. Scholz "made" the headlines . . . Or, if it has, we have missed seeing it . . . One theory has it that Mrs. Scholz's great influence and wealth has helped her handsome husband submerge himself while German embassies and consulates have come crashing down around the heads of their occupants . . . Certain United States agents, however, were so angry at the wily Herr Doktor Scholz because of his arrogance—as well as his adroitness—that it is not likely that Scholz, if he is alive, will long remain outside the toils.

★ ★ ★

MEETING THE ever-young Charles J. O'Malley as he alighted from a plane at La Guardia airport brought the Scholzes to mind . . . Mr. O'Malley had just flown East from Oklahoma, where his son Lt. Charles D. O'Malley, is in a charge of a POW camp . . . At 78, the Senior O'Malley—advertising man—seemed more youthful and spry than most of his contemporaries.

★ ★ ★

IT WAS THE O'MALLEY home in Chestnut Hill which Dr. and Frau Scholz rented for their Boston tenure of the German consulate . . . And there it seems no reason of public security or military secrecy longer to withhold the story of the part played by Mr. O'Malley in helping the authorities gather in another very elusive German official.

★ ★ ★

THE MAN'S NAME WAS Thomsen, and he was charges de affaires for Hitler in Washington . . . The hunt was on for Thomsen, and Washington thought he might be hiding out with his friend and colleague, Dr. Scholz, in Boston . . . Mr. O'Malley's assistance was requested . . . The Boston advertising man went to work . . . He called Mrs. Scholz and asked her if some slight mishap to the plumbing of the house which Mr. O'Malley owned and she was tenanting had been fixed . . . It had been . . . And did Mrs. Scholz know where Mr. Thomsen could be reached? . . . Mr. O'Malley wished to know because a woman representing herself as an old friend of Mr. Thomsen's had been inquiring about him at Mr. O'Malley's office.

★ ★ ★

MRS. SCHOLZ THOUGHT she should consult her husband, but the apparently guile-less Mr. O'Malley talked her out of such a move . . . In a few minutes, the whereabouts of Diplomat Thomsen—a New York address—was in the knowledge of the authorities . . . And that's where they picked up the trail.

"He got just what he deserved, Judge — no husband of mine can accuse me of having an uncontrollable temper!"

Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler and reported picked to lead assassins directed to kill Eisenhower, was captured by the U. S. Seventh Army last Thursday. Censors then permitted release of the plot story, one of the top military secrets of the European theater.

The story went that Skorzeny organized a party of highly trained saboteurs to infiltrate Allied lines in the early stages of Marshal von Rundstedt's breakthrough and they were told the kidnaper of Mussolini would lead them in the assassination of Eisenhower and other high ranking Allied officers.

Col. H. G. Sheen, chief of counterintelligence at SHAEF, declared today:

"But we know now that this was only a story and never at any time did Skorzeny or any of his people plan to carry out such an operation."

Sheen said Skorzeny did not accompany his party when it dropped behind Allied lines to commit sabotage.

When Skorzeny was captured he was quoted by Stars and Stripes, Army newspaper, as saying he planned an attempt on Eisenhower's life.

The story—told by Germans caught wearing American uniforms—was sufficiently convincing to provoke utmost precautions for the personal safety of Eisenhower, his chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, and other high ranking Allied officers.

Smith, the Eisenhower double, is now commander of the Third Battalion, 156th Infantry, in Germany.

Extending Meats

By MARTHA LEE

WITH MEAT supplies short, ingenious homemakers are spreading the meat to make one pound taste like two. Because meat is such a flavorful food, when the ration is small it's important to stretch the meat savor as far as possible, and to step up appetizing flavor in other ways. So, we are offering some flavor-spreading possibilities with "a pound of meat and SEASONINGS. Well-seasoned stuffings are excellent extenders. Garden herbs, curry powder or Mexican spices can pep up flavor in dishes sparse in meat.

VEGETABLES. Two pounds of lean raw meat without bone make 5 to 6 servings of a good all meat stew, but one pound can be combined with vegetables in any desired combination to make many servings. To bring out the full flavor of meat in a stew, cut it into small pieces, sprinkle with salt and pepper, roll in flour and brown in fat with or without onion. Browning the meat well before adding mixture is the flavor trick.

Another way to add flavor is to brown the flour to be used for thickening the gravy in the drippings in a heavy skillet over low heat.

Putting a "lid" on the stew and baking it as a pie stretches the servings still farther. Make the meat pie cover of pastry, or a layer of mashed potatoes, rounds of biscuit dough, or corn meal mush brushed with melted fat and brown in the oven.

CEREALS AS EXTENDERS

A little meat goes a long way also in stew scalloped with macaroni or spaghetti, stew with a border of riced potatoes or flaky rice, or between biscuits or buns as meat shortcake or a hot meat sandwich with gravy.

A pound of ground meat makes enough hamburg steak or meat patties for four servings, when broiled or sauteed "straight." But the meat goes farther, and texture is often better, combined with milk and bread crumbs, oatmeal or cereal flakes. Soya flour and grits, with their high quality protein, are especially good extenders.

SOYA MEAT LOAF

½ lb. ground meat
1½ cups vegetable stock, tomato juice, or milk
2 ounces salt pork, diced
2 tbsp. chopped onion
½ cup chopped celery
¾ cup soya grits
2 tbsp. chopped parsley
2 tsp. salt
¼ cup bread crumbs
¼ tsp. pepper

Select one kind of meat or a mixture of two or more kinds. Blend the vegetable stock, tomato juice, or milk with the meat. Fry the salt pork until crisp, remove from the fat. Cook the onion and celery in the fat for a few minutes. Add all the ingredients to the meat and mix well. Mold the loaf on a piece of tough paper with the hands. Place the paper and loaf on a rack in an uncovered pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) until well done and brown, about 1 to 1¼ hours. This meat loaf is at its best when served with a zippy sauce.

FLAKE MEAT LOAF

2 cups bran flakes, corn flakes, or wheat flakes
1 egg
1½ lbs. ground beef
½ cup finely chopped onion
2 tbsp. chopped parsley
2 tbsp. chopped green pepper
½ cup finely chopped celery
½ cup canned tomatoes
½ cup milk
¼ tsp. pepper 1½ tsp. salt

Crush cereal flakes finely. Beat egg lightly. Combine with all ingredients, mix thoroughly and pack into a loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 1½ hours. Makes 1 loaf 4x8x3 inches, enough for 8 to 10 servings.

Fashion

FOR THAT new look, the waistline is minimized for flattery . . . emphasized for importance . . . and stressing the new magic-circle waistline and white as the important accent to summer black . . . this white cape belt, designed by Criterion, has multicolor stones studding the front to reflect day or night lights. If you have a magic-circle waistline . . . feature it . . . if you don't . . . create an optical illusion, such as a belt, that says you do.—R. M.

Let's Tan the Easy Way

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

IN THESE TIMES when long-range planning is as applicable to beauty as to anything else . . . things being what they seem and are . . . it is wise to make adequate preparations for the time when King Sol must and will shine his brightest.

Sure it's fun getting healthy under the sun. But, it's more fun to be attired in chic fashion at the same time . . . to know you're the epitome of beach perfection as you give yourself wholeheartedly to the darkening rays that make for bronze beauty. And, when two topnotchers in the world of beauty and fashion clasp hands to help make your tanning both comfortable and fashionable . . . that's something.

A dramatic presentation of this alliance is contained in one package. Surprised? Take a look at the accompanying picture. Here you see two cafe-au-lait Powers models getting their nice even tans with the aid of sunburn cream . . . long famous for its protective and beneficial qualities. And you see, too, if you are style-conscious and alert to the sun-drenching potentialities of the bare and brief sun suits . . . that the attractive play clothes these girls are wearing are design creations.

HEADBAND INCLUDED

Louella Ballerino . . . notable west coast designer of original and fashion-right beach wear designed the arresting mission panoramic print especially for the cosmetic house sponsoring the sunburn cream. Aren't the colorful headbands in matching print . . . worn by these long-stemmed beauties beautiful . . . and dramatic accent for any head?

Because the two go hand in hand . . . the cream and the garb . . . this noted beautician has included in the attractively packaged sun cream . . . this exclusive Ballerino headband. Useful as well as colorful . . . it may be used for beach wear . . . as a gay note to spark a plain dress . . . as a buffer against winds while sailing . . . and even to tie back the hair while working in the garden.

SMART COMBINATION

Of course, the sunburn cream is as effective and as exquisite as the headband . . . since it permits a controlled, even tan without burning. And every girl who goes to the beach in search of nature's bronze beauty wants her tan the easy way . . . not as in the past . . . to go through the red-lobster stage.

Of course, the regular $1 size of the scientifically prepared sunburn cream is available . . . but when for only another $1 you can get the sparkling mission panoramic print head bandeau . . . you've got an unbeatable combination.

For the name of this beauty-fashion duet for suntime, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000 or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

SUN-DRENCHING will soon be in order, never fear, and you'll be basking on the hot sands for a cafe-au-lait smooth evenness . . . comparable to the lovely look of these Powers models. Naturally you'll want to look like them . . . with their fetching mission panoramic print head bandeau . . . and you'll want to use the sunburn cream they suggest for the acquisition of expansive bronze smoothness.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Sunday—Some of my friends are very much exercised because they fear that the Bretton Woods plan will not go through. This financial plan frightens many people purely because it is a financial plan and they think they cannot understand it.

Two hundred financial experts, representing 44 nations, met at Bretton Woods, N. H., last summer for several weeks and agreed on this plan after much discussion and, naturally, some compromise. The main feature is the stabilization of currencies all over the world for the benefit of international trade.

How is this done? Through a world bank and a monetary fund. The bank will have a capital of $9,100,000,000, to which every nation contributes in proportion to its wealth. Our share is $3,175,000,000. Voting power and control correspond to contributions. The bank will approve and guarantee loans for reconstruction and development of countries ruined by the war.

* * *

We need to stabilize currencies throughout the world because in the past there has been much speculative trading in currencies. Economic warfare results, and in time this brings us to shooting warfare. The simple way to look at it is this: If you want to sell goods in Holland, and their currency is depressed between the day that they agree to buy and the day they actually pay for what they buy, they are unable to buy because it costs them too much. The outcome is either that we lose our markets, or we are paid the amount we bargained for in money that does not have the value we expected it to have—which is a loss to us as individual merchants or traders.

YOU CAN write your senators and representatives and tell them how you feel about this. You are personally affected by it.

The Correct Thing

HINT FOR PROSPECTIVE BRIDE—As soon as she has settled the question of her attendants, the prospective bride gets the girls together and settles on the type of dress she'll have, her choice of colors for attendants' dresses, etc. Although she usually asks for the girls' opinions about their dresses, the final decision is hers.

Short Coat Is Hit Style

By BETTINA BEDWELL

BIGGEST hit style of the whole spring season has been the short coat. So great is its following, the experts are predicting that it is going to repeat its performance when fall comes. And among the many different kinds of short coats that make this style the short box coat is the darling of the smartest women.

The short box coat as done by Molyneux and sent here from London is sketched as a sample of the vogue. It is imported by Villa Zigmund, and is here paired with a dress. Molyneux makes the coat of navy blue wool and the dress of the same. Both are trimmed with narrow set-in lines of white pique, and there is a white pique collar on the coat and a bow at the neckline of the dress.

"I wuz thinkin'...."

by Izzy Ort

Now that the ponies are back what happens but yers trooly gits a letter from Jack Glazer, address overseas, enclosing 100,000 German marks fer me to bet on a horse called Esta. I hope I don't run into no trouble at the bettin window, and git shot fer being an escaped German prisoner . . . If fokes want to see a really good display of German souvenirs, see the window display in front of me Grille and swank El Tropico Room on Essex Street. Besides a German helmet, Nazi airforce officer's hat, militiary knives and other battle souvenirs, you'll see a huge bunch of letters, all written to me by friends and patrons now in the service. Perhaps you, if you're a regular reader of this column, or a regular visitor at me Grille and El Tropico Room will recognize some of the names on these letters . . . You kno, when you stand in front of a war window like the one in front of me Grille this week, you sure feel thankful to know that THAT HALF of the war is over. The other half, still requires our full support here on the home front, in defense plants, in the blood bank, and at the war bond window. Right now, the biggest thing we can do is to support the mighty Seventh. Remember, each bond in the hand is a bomb on Japan. Ort's Grille and El Tropico Room. ADVT.

Tonight

WILBUR—"SOLDIER'S WIFE," the popular Rose Franken comedy which recently completed an eight months' stay in New York, brings Martha Scott and Myron McCormick here at the start of their transcontinental tour. This is the sixth and last of the current season's Theater Guild and American Theater Society subscription plays.

BRATTLE HALL—"PAPA IS ALL," the Patterson Greene comedy of the Pennsylvania Dutch, winds up the Boston Stock Company's 40-week season. Marty O'Brien, James Baker, Ann Cone and Frank Cassidy are featured.

Wednesday Night

SANDERS THEATER—"MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING," Shakespeare's romantic comedy, will be presented by the Harvard Dramatic Club and the Radcliffe Idler Wednesday evening and for four successive performances.

NEW ENGLAND MUTUAL HALL — "OUR TOWN," Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize play, will be offered as the final production of the Boston Tributary Theater's current season.

Sat. Afternoon

NEW ENGLAND MUTUAL HALL — "CINDERELLA" will be offered as the final performance of the Tributary Children's Theater's Estelle Ritchie dramatization at 2:30 p. m. The following Saturday, June 2, will see, at the same theater, the final matinee of "Tom Sawyer."

Continuing

PLYMOUTH — "KISS AND TELL," George Abbott's successful production of the F. Hugh Herbert comedy, is in the sixth and final week of its local engagement. Walter Gilbert, Vera Tatum and June Dayton head the cast.

SHUBERT — "GOOD NIGHT, LADIES," Cyrus Wood's modernization of the durable Avery Hopwood farce, "Ladies' Night in a Turkish Bath," stars Skeets Gallagher and Stanley Bell with quantities of lovelies. Final two weeks.

June 2

Prexy Bob Cries Mercy For Beaten Germany

By AUSTEN LAKE

NOW HEAR THIS! Prexy Bob Hutchins of Chicago University pleads for "justice and, if possible, mercy" for defeated Germany! Every normal American echoes "Amen"!

Austen Lake

JUSTICE by all means, unrelenting and with a diamond-hard cutting point! MERCY where it is merited. Then Prexy Bob tells his 2000 students "the wildest atrocity stories cannot alter the simple truth that ALL men are human and NO men are beasts." To which normal minded America, possessed of the established facts, says "hokem." And as a final clincher Bob states, "Let us remember that vengeance is the Lord's."

I do not presume to speak for the Lord! But I say piously that the Lord did not make war's putrescent mess and shouldn't be asked to clean it up. The mess is OURS! We listened and were led after the last war by a minority of persons dwelling on the rooftops of "intellectual America" who depicted Germany as a deluded lunatic nation in need of a form of social-therapy called "re-education." And what did we get? We got another, doubly atrocious war! Let Prexy Bob and his social theorists understand that Nazi camps like Buchenwald, Belden, etc., are not "wild atrocity stories." They are glaring, grisly FACTS, performed by large numbers of men in human form, but none the less BEASTS! I saw these gruesome sights, Prexy Bob did not!

We learn by past failures! We know that hypodermic doses of democracy cannot be squirted into people which for generations have regarded war as an honest trade and mass murder and wholesale pillage as a national vocation.

Are These Men Beasts?

SOME MEN ARE BEASTS, whole masses of them! Not only that, but they made beasts out of masses of other men—as I shall demonstrate by factual proof. At Ohrdruf, Buchenwald and intermediate "liquidation" camps where the object was systematic obliteration of Nazi enemies, large numbers of prisoners were reduced spiritually by starvation and punishment to such abject levels that, for a few added daily ounces of food, they performed the dirtiest camp jobs. It was established custom among the Nazi camp authorities to educate the inherent brute in handpicked prisoners who showed promise in the art of sadism and set them like human-wolves on the others. Testimony before our Army investigators is irrefutable. The more apt a scholar became at slaughter, the easier became his lot!

Beasts? What else? Beasts just as actually as though they wore shaggy skins, had carnivorous fangs, and dagger claws! The wife of the Buchenwald commandant for example, who collected human tattoos and obliged craftsmen prisoners to tan the decorated segments of human hide to the proper degree of translucency, and make them into lamp shades for her living room. Is that a "wild atrocity story?" No! I saw these lamp shades and so did thousands of other Americans, including Senator Leverett Saltonstall. And would you, Prexy Bob, disagree that this woman is a beast? And what form of "re-education" would you prescribe?

Justice? I prefer the form prescribed by Col. Hayden Sears of Boston, commander of the 4th Armored Combat Command A, when he obliged several hundred of Ohrdruf's leading citizens to view the horrors of their nearby prisoner camp, including those wooden sheds stacked with tiers and layers of emaciated bodies, like dried cordwood, waiting their turn at the incinerators.

Col. Sears, and I quote from penciled notes jotted at the scene, said "America holds ALL of Germany responsible for these acts—not merely the beasts who performed them. A people who supported and made possible a government which could commit such indecencies against the law of God and man, must pay the penalty."

Seeds for Future Evil Fruit!

COERCIVE EDUCATION, PREXY BOB, has been tried through the ages by many nations and history reveals only one notable success. That was when ancient Rome "re-educated" Carthage by complete obliteration. Yes! The British tried for 10 generations to "re-educate" the Irish to England's preferred lines of thought and submission, though I hasten to add that Irish thought is in no way synonymous with Nazi thought. But England attempted to stuff Anglo-ideology down Irish gullets with systematic propaganda and by torch, taxation and jail ever since Oliver Cromwell (1653).

The Irish did not want Anglican education and the more they were battered and pulped the more their nationalism jelled into the rigid mould which THEY preferred. So what did English "re-education" of the Irish achieve through the centuries? To mention a few—the hedge schools, the Gaelic League, the Sinn Fein, and intense racial memory of its wrongs and a fanatical persecution complex.

And didn't Germany, among other nations, try to "re-educate" Jewry, which always turtled deeper into its racial-religious shell to emerge more central minded and unified than ever? For there is no agency which contrives a nation's spiritual solitarity, its social unity and will-to-resist as does an alien "re-education" program. Or have we forgotten our Boston Tea Party?

I make this prophecy: Watch what happens soon after we return the selected 50,000 Nazi war prisoners now being tagged for repatriation to Germany—officers, noncoms and "unreconstructed fanatics." They will instantly be grafted as sprouts on the sinister tree of the underground to bear an evil future fruit.

Statesmen, politicians and social theorists do not fight wars. They start them and make the peace! The combat soldier does the fighting. We've tried the social-theorist type of peace and it failed. Let's try a soldier's peace this time! Let's dismember and disperse by colonization the surviving Germany peoples to the waste places of the world. Let's not sow the dragon-seed of another war! Eh, Prexy Bob?

35,000 at N. Y. Turf Bow

JAMAICA RACE TRACK, N. Y., May 21 (AP)—Thousands of horse-hungry fans welcomed racing back to New York today—six weeks later than the normal opening date and 12 days after War Mobilizer Fred M. Vinson's lifting of the ban on the sport.

Long before the 1:30 first race post time, the jam session started. The stands were filled, the lawn was packed the length of the stretch and the great reunion was on. They were all here—the hordes of old customers, the horses, the handicappers, etc., and that old defending champion, kid totalisator, figured to be harder to beat than ever, at least until the talent had a chance to line up the form.

The big attraction was the $7500 added Experimental Free Handicap of six furlongs, with weights being assigned on the basis of the 3-year-olds' 1944 juvenile form. After Apropriado, Bertie S., Hal, Monsoon, Pindus and Adonis scratched early, 13 were left to go, with all except Wildlife and Sir Francis named for the Kentucky Derby.

The racing strip was at its best and it was just cool enough to make conditions ideal. Large fields predominated.

It was estimated some 35,000 or more fans were present when the tote closed for first race betting promptly at the prominently-displayed first race post time, in accordance with the new New York rule, instead of when the field broke away.

The fans applauded when a field of 11 maiden two-year-olds pranced out on the track for the five-furlong dash that sent the sport on its way, and the hand-clapping was particularly strong for Ted Atkinson, leading rider of 1944.

Ted was astride the favorite, Vera S. Bragg's Twenty-Six, but the colt lost a photo decision to Fred Lansburgh's Easy Spell, a $55.40 for $2 shot piloted by Francis Thacker. Jackamine was third, five length away. The time was 1:01 1-5.

Easy Spell took over in the run for positions and held the fast breaking Twenty-Six safe in a long, hard drive. Jackamine was well up all the way.

The crowd sent $192,495 into the machines on the curtain-raiser.

Fast Derby Work

By Bob Mann

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 21 (AP)—Three Kentucky Derby candidates worked out at Churchill Downs today and for the first time in 10 days the track was fast.

Bob Mann, Paragon Stable, was credited with stealing the show as he covered the mile in 1:40 2-5, the half mile in :47 3-5 and three-fourths in 1:13. This was the best record yet turned in during Derby workouts.

Darien of the Indian Rock Stable was clocked for the mile at 1:41; the half at :48 and the three-quarter mark at 1:13 3-5.

John Marsch's favorite, FREE-FOR-ALL, sprinted the mile in 1:43 1-5, the half in :51 3-5 and the three-quarter in 1:17 1-5.

Johnson's Hitting Key to Sox Hopes

By HUCK FINNEGAN

EN ROUTE TO BOSTON—The power of the Red Sox is concentrated in the tobacco stained bat of Bob Johnson. When Johnson hits, the Sox win. If Johnson doesn't hit the Red Sox lose (after that double-shellacking in Chicago Sunday you might say unless Ferris pitches, the Red Sox lose).

Johnson batted in the .320's last season. He battled Lou Boudreau for the league lead down to the closing week of the season. Johnson hasn't struck his real stride yet. He's down in the .260's. But where would the Sox be without him? An idea may be gleaned by a perusal of the Sox nine victories, to wit:

Sat. April 29—Sox 8, A's 4. Johnson homered in the sixth off Don Black. Cecil won.

Sun. April 29—Sox 2, A's 0. Ferriss' first victory. Johnson singled off Newsom in second and scored first run. A second single was wasted.

Sun. April 29—Sox 6, A's 3, 13 innings. Bowman chased in eighth. Woods relieved. Johnson's two-run homer in ninth tied game. His long fly in 13th scored another.

Tues. May 1—Sox 5, Nats 4. O'Neill winner. Johnson hitless, for change Newsome star of day with 3 RBI.

Wed. May 2—Sox 4, Nats 0. Wilson winner. Johnson's two-run triple in eighth off Haeffner the clincher.

Sun. May 6—Sox 5, Yanks 0. Ferriss' second win. Johnson singled Metko to third in fourth inning whence Metko scored on Tobin's foul to Yanks' dugout. In sixth he homered off Bonham to give Sox 2-0 lead.

Fri. May 11—Sox 8, Cleveland 4. Cecil's second win. Two hits, two runs for Johnson, no RBI.

Sun. May 13—Sox 8, Detroit 2. Ferriss' third win. Johnson's two-run homer in fourth off Trout gives Ferriss 2-0 lead.

Fri. May 18—Sox 2, Chicago 0. Ferriss' fourth win. Johnson hit two doubles, second of which in eighth scored Ferriss and Newsome with Sox runs.

Well, those are the only games the Sox have won this season, and you can see that Johnson has played a vital part in all except the May Day game. In those nine games he has been at bat 37 times, scored 9 runs, made 14 hits for a batting average of .378 and 11 RBI.

Now if Metkovich would continue to stroke the ball as he did in Sunday's nightcap, the Sox might climb a few notches during their home stand.

The Sox arrive home "some time tonight" . . . Practice at noon tomorrow at Fenway . . . Ferriss will pitch against the Browns Wednesday, and Johnson will hit. He always hits for Ferriss . . . The Sox won three, lost five on the trip. A base hit here or there would have given them four more wins . . . All four Sox regular infielders and catchers Garbark and Walters were lifted for pinch hitters on the road.

Here's how the Sox batted in their eight road games—At bat, hits and RBI: Newsome, 31-8-1; Steiner, 30-3-1; McBride, 26-5-2; Johnson, 31-10-4; Fox, 33-8-0; Tobin, 32-9-1; Metkovich, 14-2-2; Culberson, 8-4-2 . . . Thus Johnson was the only .300 hitter, and his 4 RBI led the club. At that pace, the Sox will win only when Ferriss and Wilson pitch shutouts.

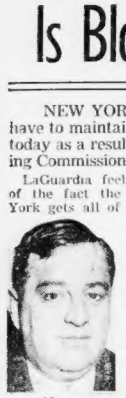
LaGuardia's Police Ban Is Blow to Race Tracks

By JACK CONWAY

NEW YORK STATE police and private detectives will have to maintain order at Jamaica when it opens its meeting today as a result of the action of Mayor LaGuardia in ordering Commissioner Valentine not to police the race track.

LaGuardia feels that in view of the fact the State of New York gets all of the racing revenue under the tax of pari-mutuel betting it should also assume the task of maintaining order at racing plants.



Mayor LaGuardia

The New York State police force is rather thin right now as a result of many of its members being in the armed services, but it will be necessary for it to have representatives on duty at Jamaica today. The track, of course, will have its regular quota of detectives who in the past have devoted most of their time to barring pickpockets, checking up on touts and keeping tabs on persons around the track.

There will, of course, also be the State inspectors, but they have never done any police work. They check on the various track accounts and see that racing is conducted according to law.

The chief duty of uniformed police is to maintain order inside of the track and its approaches. Experience has taught race track operators that one uniformed policeman is more effective with crowds than a dozen plain-clothesmen.

Duty at New England tracks is an extra detail for policemen for which they receive special compensation from the racing associations. The same procedure is followed as in the case where there is some event at the Boston Garden where 20 to 30 policemen may be required.

Mayor LaGuardia has been a bitter foe of horse racing, and his order withdrawing the police from Jamaica is another move on his part against the sport. The Mayor should be able to adjust the matter of policing the tracks in conferences with State and track authorities.

The public which attends races has a right to receive police protection such as it is accorded at ball games, boxing matches and at political gatherings. Without proper policing, there is always danger of disorders at sports events. If there should be a riot at a New York race track, it certainly would be the duty of the local police to do what they could to suppress it. With no local police on duty a riot could very well get beyond control before a detail of police could be rushed to a track.

Castleman at Peak

CASTLEMAN displayed top racing form as he won the $5000 added Spring Handicap at Narragansett on Saturday. There were many persons who felt that Smart Bet would set such a fast pace that Castleman would never succeed in catching him.

It was Good Going, carrying the light impost of 102 pounds, who got out front and set the pace down the backstretch. When Smart Bet finally got into the lead on the turn, he was tired and he did not prove a match for Castleman through the stretch. It was Good Going who fought it out to the wire with Castleman, losing the decision by a head. Smart Bet was a poor third.

The form has been particularly good at the Narragansett meeting. There has been a parade of short-priced horses into the winner's circle.

Lt. Weston W. Adams' Fore and Aft., a $4100 colt, has blazing speed. This two-year-old proved the class of his race.

Fred Allen Coming

FRED ALLEN has telephoned George Hassen that he will be on the job as toastmaster at the testimonial dinner to James E. Downey, retiring headmaster of the High School of Commerce, which will be held at the Hotel Statler on May 29. The dinner was originally scheduled for early in May, but it was postponed when Allen became ill. Fred says his health is once more perfect and he will do everything possible to make the Downey dinner a success.

Fred Allen, as John Florence Sullivan, graduated from the High School of Commerce in 1911. This was the first graduation class over which James E. Downey presided at Commerce as headmaster.

Santa Anita's first Saturday card brought 43,400 turf fans to the track, with the parimutuel handle $2,216,494. Mrs. Clyde Phillips' Vain Prince won the six-furlong event, with its $25,000 purse.

McCarthys Show Way in Park Loop

Though operating on an abbreviated schedule due to the elements, Boston's Park Dept. Baseball Leagues managed to dent the home fields of all seven entrants and the close of the first week of competition shows the McCarthy Club of Roxbury in first place with two wins and no losses, and the Hicks Engineers close after them with a single win to land in second place.

The Linehan Club of South Boston managed to settle for third place with a win, loss and a tie and the league's two hottest rivals—the Dick Casey Club of Dorchester and the Navy Yard A. A. deadlocked for fourth place in the league standings with a win and a loss apiece.

Hal Crosby's Roxburyites garnered a win over the Roslindale Town Team but dropped a decision to the Hicks' outfit and made it a three-way deadlock for fourth place while the Roslindale gathering faltered and sputtered through three league losses and wound up in the cellar position.

Braves Invade West; Pitchers Below Par

By BILL GRIMES

After losing 13 out of the 24 games the weather permitted them to play, the Braves are in the second division, a half game above the seventh place Pirates, as they start on their first swing around the Western loop.

Generally speaking, the pitching in the National League hasn't been up to standard. The weather probably has had a great deal to do with this condition. Pitchers need warm sunshine. And, Old Sol has been on a sitdown strike practically all spring. So, naturally, the batters are ahead of the hurlers.

The Braves' pitching hasn't been good by a long shot. On no less than 15 occasions, Manager Bob Coleman has been obliged to derrick his starting pitchers. All but one of the Braves' defeats has been charged against the Big Four. Nate Andrews (3-3) and Al Javery (1-1) have pitched .500 ball but "Red" Barrett has only two wins against three defeats and Jim Tobin is "2 and 5". Bob Logan came through with an easy win on his only start, while Tom Early and Charlie Cozart were credited with wins over the Blue Jays, although neither of them were around at the finish.

The Braves open an 18-game road trip Wednesday night in Pittsburgh. It will require a far better grade of pitching than they've been favored with in the East to win in the West.

On the strength of his showing against the St. Louis Cardinals, Bob Logan is entitled to replace one of Coleman's starting pitchers. He held the league champions to one run and allowed only eight hits. Any left-hander, who can keep around the plate can breeze through the major leagues today. So, Logan should win.

The Braves are using a staggered start westward. The vanguard pulled out last night for New York, where it will be joined by the remainder of the playing personnel tomorrow night. Louis Perini, Jack Quinn and Bob Coleman will go direct to Pittsburgh.

Mel Bosser, who is getting a tryout with the Cincinnati Reds, was overseas with Warren Spahn, the young left-hand pitcher who was on his way up through the Braves' farm system when he joined the Army. Spahn is with the 176th Engineers of the Rainbow Division, and, according to Bosser, is now in Berlin.

Eddie Joost will have his toe X-rayed again today. He was in agony after yesterday's doubleheader and unless the injured member is greatly improved, Joost will not be at second base on Wednesday.

Mike Ulisney made an auspicious home debut. On his first appearance at bat, Mike smacked one of "Bucky" Walters' serves over the left-field fence and later "blooped" a hit into right field.

There wasn't much choice between the Braves' and Reds' pitching yesterday. It was atrocious. Any time a total of 54 hits are made even during a doubleheader, the pitching is pffft. And, it was all of that yesterday.

Mrs. Jim Tobin was to have left Oakland for Pittsburgh last night on "The Chief" but she had to cancel her reservations, which she had waited six weeks for, when "Patsy" Tobin, her older daughter, contracted mumps.

Medford 'Yankees' Of School Baseball

By MIKE GILLOOLY

There's an old belief in major league baseball that a player only has to put on a New York Yankee uniform and he becomes another of the world's champions—in hitting, fielding and in general all round standing. Well, that's the comparison that Faculty Manager Henry Bucce is drawing with his Medford High School baseball team.

Medford is undefeated in six straight games so far this season (the Mustangs were to meet Lowell today) and Coach Art Tirrell's boys are well on their way to a successful defense of their Greater Boston League crown.

F. M. Bucce refers back to the start of the season in crediting the team with so much success. New uniforms were needed and he and Coach Tirrell conferred on the subject. It was finally decided that they should copy the style of the Yankee traveling uniforms—real big league stuff. Actually, the pair had that old belief in their minds at the time and were just wondering how it would work out.

Well, their doubts have been dispersed. The pitching has held up well—although Paul Whalen, No. 2 moundsman behind Joe DiBiase has now left to join the U. S. Navy—and the batting has been along typical Yankee slugging lines. As a matter of fact, Coach Tirrell just can't wait to get up against Somerville again at Braves Field, May 30, to see just how well the boys will react in the major league setting.

Left fielder Johnny Murray has been the sensation of the campaign, hitting the agate for a classy .500 in the half dozen contests played to date. Murray, along with first baseman Ed Carpenter (clicking at another unimaginable figure, .451) have been the 'long ball' hitters of the club. And their consistency has been a most happy revelation to Coach Tirrell.

The pair have been setting a torrid pace but just take a peek at the others as they follow in the lofty list. There's catcher Tink Templeton with .429 and outfielder Pete Gerardi with .434. And shortstop Art D'Errico at .384; centerfielder DiBiase (when he's not pitching) .323; third baseman Gene King with .287 and second baseman Albie Thomann with .269.

There's a club whose hitting and pitching, as contributed by DiBiase, Paul Canty and southpaw Charlie Garrity, might very well be the new State champion.

Schoolboy baseball in the city ranks was to have a couple of days more of rest as the trackmen take over at Boston College . . . the Outdoor Reggie field events and trials were to get underway today with the finals to take over tomorrow . . . and then the boys will be well tuned up for the State Meet at Newton's Dickinson Stadium next Saturday . . . in between, there'll be plenty of baseball if the weather clears.

Friday will be a banner afternoon in the Hub ranks with six baseball games scheduled . . . the Boston schoolboys can fully realize the break they're getting under the new regime of McKenney, Ohrenberger and Duffy . . . English High tied for the State relay crown over the week-end as a result of a new ruling by the board . . . the Blue and Blue was allowed, for the first time, to double up its relay team.

TODAY'S ROLL OF HONOR

"... Greatness appears in every hour; it rises from the gloom on wings resplendent with a bitter loss. Nothing is now of pettiness or dross, but steadfast, silent payment, Freedom's price, a resolution overmastering doom, and warrior's crown of infinite sacrifice." —(Gorell.)

The War Department today announced, through the Office of War Information, the names of 90 casualties of the European and Pacific regions residing in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Maine.

The list includes 35 DEAD, 41 WOUNDED IN ACTION and 14 MISSING IN ACTION.

Also announced were the names of 22 men from Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Maine LIBERATED from German prison camps.

Next of kin in all cases have been kept informed directly by the War Department of any change in status. In case of divergence between this list and information sent to next of kin, the last War Department telegram or letter to next of kin is the final authority on the status of a soldier.

The Navy Department, also through OWI, announced 13 casualties of the Navy and Marine Corps residing in Massachusetts and Rhode Island. A Massachusetts man, previously reported prisoner, was announced as safe.
